

There can be no doubt that the internet is a fantastic learning resource and that the tools, services and information accessible there should be available to schools. But it is also riddled with material which is not suitable for the school environment: Protex can protect both staff and students and allow your students to work on the internet safely and securely.

Protex offers significant cost savings over comparable web filtering systems.

Protex is normally supplied as part of a managed broadband service, but can also be installed on a local server.
